DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 20-23 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As per claims 20-23, they are confusing because claims 20-23 appear to describe method steps while refer to a system.

As per claim 28, it is confusing because claim 28 appears to describe a computer executable process while refer to a computer program product.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moriyama (U. S. 4,851,999) in view of publication "Three Way Match Requirement for All Procurement Component Payment" by Minnesota Departments of Finance and Administration.

Art Unit: 3629

Moriyama teaches general-purpose management method and system, comprising:

As per claims 10, 14, 15, 21, 24 and 27, providing one or more unmatched invoices (column 3, lines 30-51);
periodically inquiring to determine if a new goods received receipt (GRA) is present (column 3, lines 40-47); performing logical operations (column 3, lines 40-47).

Moriyama does not specifically teach that the logical operations include performing a logical three-way match between each invoices, goods received receipts and purchase orders.

The publication "Three Way Match Requirement for All Procurement Component Payment" by Minnesota Departments of Finance and Administration, which appears to be published on June 29, 1995 (hereafter referred as "Three Way Match Requirement"), teaches the three way match process comprising a logical three-way match between each invoice, one or more goods received receipts, and one or more purchase orders, and wherein said logical three-way match is performed by comparing a GRR number on each said invoice with a GRR number on said one or more GRR, a unit price on said one or more GRR with a unit price on each said invoice, and a quantity on each said invoice with a quantity on said one or more GRR, and wherein an equal comparison of either said GRR number, or said unit price, or said quantity shall constitute said match was found, including generating logical results of said three-way match (See entire reference).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Moriyama by adding the three way match process capability, because it would increase the efficiency of the system by allowing to process all procurement component payments regardless what was received first: the packing slip or invoice.

Also, Moriyama teaches:

As per claims 12, 16, 22, 25 and 28, said method and system, comprising transferring a matched invoice and the logical result to the database (column 3, lines 40-47).

As per claims 13, 20, 23, 26 and 29, said method and system, comprising storing purchase orders in the database (column 3, lines 42-51).

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement ".

As per claim 11, Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " teach all the limitations of claim 11, except for removing an unmatched invoice after a predetermined period of time.

It would have been an obvious matter of design choice at the time the invention was made to modify Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " to include removing an unmatched invoice after a predetermined period of time, because it appears that the claimed features do not distinguish the invention over similar features in the prior art, and the teachings of Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement" would perform the invention as claimed by the applicant either with or without removing the unmatched invoices.

Claims 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " in view of Call (U. S. 5,913,210).

As per claims 17 and 18, Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " teach all the limitations of claims 17 and 18, except that said entry means are provided via EDI 850.

Call teaches a method and apparatus for disseminating product information via Internet comprising a mechanism for exchanging business documents in standard format between computers, such as Electronic Data Interchange (EDI). For example, EDI 850 purchase order transaction can be implemented (column 12, lines 1-16).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " by including means for electronic entry via EDI 850, because it would decrease processing time per order and, thereby, decrease cost to operate the system.

Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " in view of Remington et al. (U. S. 6,070,150).

As per claim 19, Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " teach all the limitations of claim 19, except that said database tool is SAP.

Art Unit: 3629

Remington et al. teach electronic bill presentment and payment system employing SAP as bill analysis and business accounting software (column 13, lines 60-67; column 14, line 1).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Moriyama and "Three Way Match Requirement " by adding SAP as database tool because it would decrease processing time per order as well as increase the adaptability and reliability of said system.
